Children and Their Pets Flock Into Playgrounds for Contest

There were 148 entries in the contest with more than 600 persons witnessing the affair.

Flying pennants, waving paper streamers and colorful posters decorated the playgrounds for the day.

At Lincoln playground Fay De Balb carried two white ducks.

Mary Lou Singer, a leader at the playground brought her pet hamster to the show, not as a participant but just to watch.

The little animal sat contentedly nibbling on a carrot.

As he neared the judges the cat slipped the harness and dashed away. Terry received the prize anyway and was reassured by his mother that the cat would return.

Adventist Speaker Predicts World's End

By MARTIN SAIDITCH
(Mercury Staff Writer)

Politically, socially and religiously the world is in a state of chaos which will soon lead to total destruction.

Elder J. Gershon Daseant told 1800 Seventh Day Adventists attending an evangelistic service on the Allegheny conference meeting grounds in Pine Forge last night.

Spiritual darkness rests like a pall upon our present civilization.

The Pittsburgh preacher asserted the world today is farther away from God than ever before. An everlasting night will soon settle upon the world and the unbelievers. It is high time to awaken out of our sleep in examine ourselves and let others know that the Lord is coming.

Describing conditions through out the earth, Elder Daseant declared the Christian churches are literally blown apart by the winds of doctrine. Supposed Christians know little about the plain teachings of God.

Anyone seem to be able to start a religion. The Bible has lost its place in the home and family and its teachings are laid aside or given a second place in the world of material.

Three Men Pay $11.50 Fine on Loitering Charge

The three men arrested for loitering at Beech and Grant streets Tuesday night yesterday paid $11.50 each after pleading guilty before Seventh ward Justice of the Peace Richard J. Cadmus.

Randy Beasley, 26 of 323 Grant street, Jesse Hurt Jr. 23 of 792 Lincoln avenue and Mahlon Butler Jr. 26 of 132 Winter street were arrested by Motor Patrolman Stanley Bormes after they had been warned several times not to loiter at the corner of Beech and Grant streets.

Cadmus told the trio they would "have to break up that kind of stuff. He told them police were cracking down because of the false alarm turned on on the same corner this past Saturday night.

Bormes said after the arrests the men and others in the vicinity of the intersection where the false alarm was sounded by Fincley White 118 1/2 Warren street Saturday had been warned 20 minutes before the incident.

Cadmus asserted there would have been no trouble had the three men moved on after the warning.

The men were released after posting $25 forfeitures Tuesday.

They were fined $5 and paid $6.50 costs to Cadmus yesterday morning.

Heat, Humidity On Tap Today

Keep the lemonade machine going. Mother it's going to be hot and humid again today.

It seems Mother Nature must be leading up to the customary Fourth of July heat. Monday and Tuesday were mild yesterday was rather warm with a high of 83 degrees and today promises to be blistering with the high ranging from 86 to 92.

There's just no escaping the fact that Independence Day traditions ally is a scorcher. This year, judging from the build-up we're getting it will be no exception.

THE WEATHER

For Eastern Pennsylvania: Clear and a little warmer with highest 86 to 92 degrees today. Tomorrow partly cloudy warm and more humid with scattered afternoon thundershowers mostly over the west and north portions.

SEARS TIGHTENS RESTRICTIONS ON LAWN WATERING

Sprinkling Is Allowed Only Between Midnight And 6 A. M. Daily

Restrictions on lawn sprinkling last night were tightened by Borough Manager Dow J. Sears in an effort to conserve the borough water supply.

The new restriction will allow residents to sprinkle only between midnight and 6 a. m. daily until further notice.

Sears tightened the sprinkling regulation after a visit to Maple Gardens and Linden apartments two of the highest points which the borough water works supplies.

The borough manager partially lifted the two-week ban on sprinkling which was imposed when pressure dropped to a dangerous low.

Senate Names J. A. Marquet As Postmaster

The telephone in the home of Acting Postmaster J. Alfred Marquet rang at 8:45 o'clock last night and he answered it.

A few seconds later Marquet was saying:

Boy, you're like Santa Claus to me. I've been watching the paper for it. I've been sweating it out for a year and a half and that's long enough.

A Mercury reporter on the other end of the line had just told him his recommended appointment as permanent postmaster had been approved by the Senate.

The news had just come over the news service wire.

MARQUET, who has been waiting for the appointment since February 1951 when he became acting postmaster, said he had been afraid the Senate would be in nomination committee in Chicago and leave Washington without voting on the postmaster recommendations made by President Truman.

He said that if the Senate approval had been postponed until Fall when the legislators returned to the capital there would be a chance no party in power might change and he was fairly certain a Republican Senate majority would not approve him.

Fire Companies Will Ask Borough for More Money

Everybody Helps Move

Even 20 months old William Flinn totes a suitcase as his father and mother Capt. and Mrs. Robert Flinn of the Salvation Army begin moving their belongings into their new home at 291 Diamond street. Capt. Flinn replaces Sr. Capt. Merv E. Cox as commander of the borough Army. The family arrived from Darby yesterday. The Flinns are thrilled with their new quarters which are much nicer than those in which they lived on the second floor of the old Army building.

New 'Army' Leader To Keep Traditions

They are of different builds, complexions and habits but Sr. Capt. Merv E. Cox and Capt. Robert Flinn who moved into the borough yesterday as the former replacement of the local Salvation Army citadel have at least one thing in common.

They both believe in dispensing free coffee to firemen at sizeable blazes.

The shorter and darker Captain Flinn said last night as he and his wife Ruth and 19-year old Dolores Realty an Army friend were storing their clothing and the few other personal belongings they brought from Darby with them.

I've heard quite a bit about Capt. Cox's custom of giving the men coffee and I favor it very much. I intend seeing the fire chief and telling him I hope to continue the practice.

I've been very interested in emergency and fire work. For

Leaders Cite Declining Revenue, Rising Costs

Pottstown's volunteer fire companies beset by a steep drop in revenue and leading rising costs of fire-fighting intend to seek a substantial increase in the borough's appropriation.

This was indicated yesterday by reports from leaders of the three companies that now have buildings and equipment—Philadelphia Steam Fire Engine, Good Will and Empire Hook and Ladder.

Leaders said estimates of the increase could not be made until the firemen prepared their budgets for next year, a job expected to begin this month.

But the leaders mentioned that many firemen favored a system in use in similar communities with volunteer companies—having the borough buy one new pumper a year. Equipped pumpers now cost about $25,000.

In addition to the increases

Driving a motor vehicle has been better day has a common hazard such a developing some kind of mechanical complication on lonely roads late a night.

That's exactly what happened to the Simmon on the fire time they decided to drive through the night so that the could get in some early morning fishing at Catfish creek.

Simon, the acute wheel handler was the first to notice that the ammeter was not working. For those who don't know about ammeters no amping suffice it to say isn't healthy for the battery and an unhealthy battery means a cooked-out car.

In true American tradition Simon stopped the vehicle, lifted the hood up, tinkered with this and that did a lot of cranking, ending up with greasy hands and an ammeter that still wouldn't amp.

Seeing his honor a mechanically adept male he announced: "Must be something wrong with the battery and generator or something."

Road Collapses Under Truck

Borough worker, barely had time to admire their job of fixing the street at the Pine and War streets intersection before a heavy cement truck boomed down to its rear axle.

They had laid a 6-inch water main on Pine street between Master and Mineral streets and a fire hydrant at the Mineral and Pine streets intersection.

Charles Brenninger, Rockville RD the driver of the cement truck said: "I was driving alone and it just caved in." commenting on the cause of the accident.

Borough officials said that the intersection had been dug up and the water main was cut in a third point but that workers had done a thorough job of pounding the soil with a pneumatic hammer until it was solid.

THE OFFICIALS further commented that other heavy trucks had gone over the same spot where

Nurse Starts Drive For Linens Needed By Cancer Patients

Tereen Melcher, Boyertown Community nurse, has made a plan for large linens which are used by cancer patients.

Miss Melcher stated that large linens, preferably one yard square, which might be cut from old worn sheets or pillow cases, were the main items which would serve the purpose.

Miss Melcher will be at the Community Center, 316 West Philadelphia avenue, Boyertown, on July 7, 8 and 9 between noon and 1 o'clock to receive any linens which the public may be willing to donate.

The linens collected will in turn be given to the Berks County American Cancer society, Reading. This society has supplied this area with many dressings and linens, all free of charge, for patients suffering from cancer.

It is hoped that the public will heartily participate in donating their old linens to this worthy cause.

Interment will be in Swamp Lutheran cemetery, New Hanover.

Services will be held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from a funeral home at 124 West Philadelphia avenue, Boyertown.

The Azores islands in the Atlantic Ocean are sometimes linked poetically to the fabulous "lost continent of Atlantis," the legendary land the Arabian geographers discovered only in medieval writings.

Interment will be in Swamp Lutheran cemetery, New Hanover.

Mussain Pasha Sworn in As Egypt Cabinet Head

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, July 2 (U.P.)—Mussain Sirry Pasha, an independent whose policies once failed to satisfy nationalistic Egyptian demands, was sworn in at the head of a new cabinet today.

The veteran politician's cabinet comprises 13 non-party men. His government replaces that of Ahmed Naguib Hilaly Pasha, a former Waldist (Nationalist) who disappointed many Egyptians by his failure to drive a speedy bargain for evacuation of British troops from the Suez Canal zone and recognition of King Farouk's title over the Sudan. Hilaly Pasha resigned Saturday.

Texas Flag Waves Amid GOP Arguments

Medical Report Given That Chloromycetin Caused Nine Deaths

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Nine cases in which patients treated with the new antibiotic chloromycetin subsequently died of aplastic anemia were reported today in the journal of the American Medical Association.

The reports were contained in three articles by researchers from Milwaukee, Salt Lake City and Los Angeles. The articles blamed the drug for bringing on the anemia. Six of the victims were children.

The articles followed an editorial in the past week's AMA journal warning the nation's physicians against promiscuous use of chloromycetin, known commercially as chloromycetin, a drug developed five years ago from soil taken from a field in Venezuela.

The drug reported has been effective against many hard-to-beat diseases including typhoid fever, undulant fever, whooping cough, rocky mountain spotted fever and urinary tract infections.

Senator Williams Lists Big Tax Cases Settled Too Easily

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Sen. Williams (R-Del.) gave the Senate today a list of 54 big income tax cases he said were settled for fractions of the amounts the Government claimed—including a $1,301,005.00 case settled for $10,000.

The American taxpayer who is forced to bear this additional tax burden, Williams said in a speech, has the right to know who is getting by without paying all his taxes.

The Senator said he had not attempted to check the merits or demerits in any of the claims he listed, and added:

I merely state the cases and suggest that each taxpayer compare these settlements with the manner in which his own tax case has been handled.

HE SAID he considered "greater publicity of all compromise settlements plus an independent audit would be a major step toward breaking up the widespread corruption and political fixing which has been exposed as existing in the Treasury department."

Williams' case of a $10,000 settlement on a $1,301,005.00 claim was part of a compromise on a related group of claims running to additional millions.

He said United Importers and Distributors, incorporated, New Haven, Conn., billed for $909,431.23 for 1943, settled in 1948 for $431,636.36.

Acceptance of this compromise, Williams related, was conditional upon acceptance of these other settlements:

Charles D. Biondino, New Haven, Conn., $1,301,005.00 for 1920-42, settled for $10,000.

Alice Gerby Dantonio, New Haven, Conn., $374,700.30 for 1920-40, settled for $5,000.

Jennette Dantonio, New Haven, Conn., $374,700.30 for 1920-40, settled for $5,000.

Anthony Germe, New Haven, Conn., $874,700.30 for 1920-40, settled for $5,000.

Michael F. O'Connor and Mary G. O'Connor, New Haven, Conn., $224,247.52 for 1920-43, settled for $5,000.

WARREN STAYS ON MOVE

SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 2 (AP)—California Gov. Earl Warren will fly back to Sacramento tonight and roll out again tomorrow for Chicago to bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

General Eisenhower Hits Campaign Trail For GOP Convention

DENVER, July 2 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower hits the campaign trail tomorrow for Chicago and the GOP national convention where he will get the answer to his Presidential nomination ambitions.

Optimists Call off Meeting For Holiday Celebration

Tomorrow the Optimists and wives will operate refreshment stands during the Firemen's centennial parade.

Narrow Escape

Believe it or not, but Army Pfc. Ronald L. Voss managed to escape unscathed from this accident in Washington, D. C. His convertible ripped through a 1-foot metal section of the Park Bridge and dropped 15 feet to the underbrush below. Voss crawled from the wreck moments later, dusted himself off and walked away unharmed.

In Royal Robes

His aides are trying to crowd in as many stops as possible in the special train schedule which calls for him to leave here at 12:30 p. m. EST tomorrow and arrive in Chicago at 12 noon EST Saturday.

Today the General went into the mountains to work on his speeches and to fish—while the forces of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio took solid control of pre-convention maneuvering in Chicago. Eisenhower was not available for comment.

But an aide indicated the General may speak on tomorrow before leaving Denver.

There was shocked surprise in the Eisenhower top command over the news that Taft forces in the GOP national committee had swept a full slate of Taft delegates from Georgia into convention seats. The top heavy vote of 62 to 39 for Taft was the shocker.

THERE WAS no word on how the General himself felt about the situation. He left town before noon with an old friend, Aksel Nielsen, president of the Title Guaranty company, for his mountain lodge about 40 miles from Denver.

Early revisions in the train schedule called for a first stop at Rich, Colo., near Denver and a rear platform talk at Clinton, Iowa, Saturday morning, before the train begins the final run into Chicago.

The General was leaving all the convention strategy and tactics to his people in Chicago.

Eisenhower will set up his command post at Chicago in the Blackstone hotel where he will make himself available to delegates and Republican political leaders. But he is not expected to take an active part in the actual convention maneuvering.

Queen Elizabeth II of England is shown as she attended an installation service at Saint Giles Cathedral in Edinburgh, Scotland.

430 Holiday Deaths Predicted by Experts

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—The National Safety Council today estimated that 430 persons would die in traffic accidents over the three-day Fourth of July holiday.

It said it based its estimate on cold figures past experience and current traffic trends.

However, the council added, caution by motorists could hold the toll to 300 or less.

It urged each driver to make an all-out effort to prevent the one accident he can control—the one he might cause.

The estimate of 430 traffic deaths covers the period from 6 p. m. local time Thursday through midnight Sunday and includes only deaths occurring during that period. It does not include later deaths resulting from holiday accidents.

A Quick Look at Your Neighbor

By LARRY DAVIS

When the hundreds of delegates gather at the Pine Forge institute for the annual meeting of the Allegheny conference of Seventh Day Adventists, one of the many men busying himself to see that the affair runs smoothly is Elder Addison V. Pinkney.

A convert to the Adventist movement since his teens and a former public school instructor for 20 years, Pinkney today fills six important administrative posts in the Allegheny conference. He is supervisor of church schools, Missionary Volunteer secretary, and Secretary for temperance, War Commission, industrial relations and press affairs.

In order to conduct the details of these offices, he finds himself traveling by train and automobile nearly 2500 miles a month.

Pinkney was born on May 23, 1903 in Baltimore, Md. where he spent most of his life. He is the older of two sons whose father was a valet to many of the prominent Baltimore families, including Donald Symington of the railroad car coupling manufacturers.

Churchwise, the family was Presbyterian until one day when he was about 15 his mother took her two sons to an Adventist meeting.

I was impressed by their cordial welcome. Pinkney recalls with enthusiasm. They made us feel comfortable and at home. So it wasn't long until the three of us embraced the faith ourselves.

He did not join the top administrative echelon of the Allegheny conference, however, until five years ago.

Pinkney received his early education in the Baltimore public schools and was graduated from Copping Normal school there in 1925. He later received his bachelor's degree in education at Morgan State college and in intervening years has attended the Adventists' Oakwood college in Alabama and Hunter college, N. Y.

He has all but completed work for his master's degree in education at the University of Pennsylvania.

Pinkney taught for 20 years and was principal at the Turner public school in Baltimore which had a pupil population of 400. Two years before joining the administrative staff of the Allegheny conference, he was executive director of the Baltimore Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

In his second year there, 1941, his branch was cited by the national NAACP office for meritorious achievement. More than 1,000 branches were in competition for the honor.

Pinkney is a handsome, brown-eyed man in whom is combined the qualities of modesty and a certain forceful logical thinking. His principal responsibility as supervisor of the 13 church schools in the conference is to promote teacher growth and pupil direction.

Thus, he explains, involves in part the scientific research into new teaching methods. The church school curriculum is constantly being studied and re-evaluated with the idea of making the pupils life fuller and richer. Techniques developed are exchanged with other conference schoolmen and when requested with other agencies of education outside the Adventist sect.

As missionary volunteer secretary, he is responsible for the development of Christian leadership among the young people of the church, particularly in adolescents.

A minor family disagreement will arise when the churchman recalls his wedding date. Mrs. Pinkney, the former Lillian Mosley, says it's September 1923, her husband claims 1924, but hastens to suggest his wife is correct. There are four grown children—two girls and two boys—and three grandchildren.

The V in Pinkney's name stands for Vastapha, a euphonious inheritance from his grandfather. His avocations are "off-coast" salt water fishing and playing the violin which he studied for eight years. Ordained to the Adventist ministry for life the past Saturday, Pinkney chuckles at a contribution he has made to the conference heads purely outside the realm of churchwork.

In the short period of two and one-half years, Douglas V. O'Dell, Pottstown real estate broker, has established himself successfully in business after a career that has seen him as school teacher and infantry soldier.

The past April, O'Dell, who will be 38 on October 19, moved to his new eight-room home on Park Court where he and his wife, Anne, and their three children are now permanently established.

Sharp-featured with a high forehead and receding hair line, O'Dell is a natural Philadelphian, born, reared and educated here and is actively interested in the community's civic development.

He is the second oldest of the four children of Wilbert F. Sr. and Caroline F. O'Dell. There are two brothers and a sister. Following his graduation from Pottstown High School in 1930, O'Dell entered Ursinus college as a commuting day student in the social studies.

At the end of his sophomore year, he ran out of money and went to work as the Doehler Jarvis corporation cleaning castings and doing other odd assignments to accumulate funds. He returned to Ursinus after a year and as a senior became a resident student.

Consequently, his only major activity on the campus was as a contributing author to the college literary magazine, The Lantern.

For two years after his graduation in 1936 on the lag end of the depression era, he earned money selling vacuum sweepers for a High Street appliance store.

In 1938, he joined the faculty of the Pottstown Junior High School, teaching ninth grade English until the war year of 1941.

O'Dell entered service in February, 1942 and 11 months later was commissioned a second lieutenant in the infantry at Fort Benning, Ga. This was followed by 18 months in the Aleutian Islands where he was company commander for 300 raw recruits. He was the only officer in the group.

They were just kids and pretty much of a problem.

After returning to the U. S., he shipped for Europe with the 106th Infantry Division which absorbed much of the punishment of the historic Battle of the Bulge. On Dec. 19, 1944, he fell prisoner to German forces and for the next 18 months was confined to a series of prison camps.

As Nazi resistance collapsed, American officer prisoners were herded to new camps in Austria and as the result of this, O'Dell lost his left leg above the knee.

He was in a group of 150 officers being marched to new camps when the American air force staged its last big raid on Nuremberg. As the planes came over, the prisoners were corralled in a railroad center which was the flight's target.

Hit on April 5, he was confined to a German hospital in Nuremberg from which he was liberated 12 days later and returned to Walter Reed Army hospital.

Retired as a captain, O'Dell joined James T. Moore as a real estate salesman in 1946 and on Jan. 17, 1950, he struck out on his own.

One of his odddest real estate deals was a three-way merry-go-round that sent one family to the country, brought one back to town and kept one in the borough.

Except for a friendly game of cards and a yen for fresh water fishing, he has few side interests.

His wife, whom he married on May 10, 1944, is the former Miss Anne Noll. There are three children: Douglas V. Jr., 4; Timothy 2½; and Baby Caroline Estelle, eight months. She's a Muffin to her folks. O'Dell is treasurer and a director for Pottstown's United Fund and is a member of the Pottstown Lions club, the Elks, Eagles, Amvets and American Legion.

For four years, he lived on North Charlotte street, RD 2. Last year, in June, he started work on his dream home. Now that he is in, he is there to stay.

Academy Weekend Attracted Interested Students

Nearly 100 prospective students from seven States and the District of Columbia visited the Pine Forge institute on Academy weekend, May 13 to 15. The Seventh, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth grade students from the church and public schools in the Allegheny conference were from such areas as: 1. Newark, N. J.; 2. Cleveland, Ohio; 3. Dayton and Cincinnati, Ohio; 4. Washington, D. C.; 5. Baltimore, Md.; 6. Springfield, Ohio; 7. Camden, N. J.; 8. Philadelphia; 9. Pittsburgh; 10. Jersey City, N. J.; 11. Columbus, Ohio; 12. Norfolk, Va.; and 13. Pine Forge. When the weekend was over, many who had visited the institute were impressed by the facilities and indicated they would return in September.

Twenty in Pine Forge Graduation Class

Elevated Train Wrecks; 50 Passengers Injured

BKLYN, July 2.—A crowded West Berlin elevated train smashed into a stationary train in the American sector today, injuring an estimated 50 passengers.

Soviet zone railway police took over traffic control of the area immediately and chased Western newsmen and photographers as well as onlookers from the scene. The city's elevated S-Bahn system controlled by the Russian zone authorities by agreements dating back to 1945.

German officials said a faulty block signal apparently was in the cause of the crash. There were hundreds of passengers aboard both trains.

Bill on Air Pollution Sent to Senate by House

WASHINGTON, July 2.—House passage sent to the Senate today a bill setting up a five-year program of research in the causes of air pollution.

Proponents of the bill, which would cost from $1,000,000 a year for five years, said the project would be made jointly by the Public Health Service and the Agriculture and Interior departments.

The project calls for (a) an investigation of the causes and immediate and long-range effects of the crash, (b) with regard to industrial areas, the possibility of preventing, controlling and removing or recovering strategic materials.

Eisenhower Gains Vote in Home State

CHICAGO, July 2.—The Republican national committee unanimously decided the Kansas Taft-Eisenhower delegate fight over a single seat today by accepting the Eisenhower backer.

The vote taken behind closed doors departed from the pattern of earlier committee actions which had resulted in the selection of pro-Taft delegates notably in the case of the Georgia delegation. Four more State delegate disputes remain to be decided and the committee agreed to meet an hour early tomorrow (at 9 a. m. EST) to take up the first of these, Louisiana.

Today's final vote gave the committee's nod to William Horton Jr. as a delegate at large from Kansas.

Sen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's home State. He was opposed by Taft supporter Bob Bentley.

This is the Kansas delegation as made up of 20 Eisenhower backers and two Taft supporters.

Circus to Feature Cuban Performer in Balancing Acts

Con Concello, a wire performer who dances, swings, lies down and balances himself on his hands with out aid of a parasol or balancing pole, is one of a number of featured attractions of the Hagen Brothers circus, which will be in the borough for one day, July 12.

The American Business club is sponsoring the circus appearance opposite the Pottstown Youth center on Firestone drive.

The son of a wealthy Cuban plantation owner, Concello was about to enter government service when the circus proved an irresistible attraction to him.

On applying himself he discovered he had a gift of equilibrium which soon enabled him to master feats on the wire no other performer ever has duplicated.

In addition to other equilibrist, an array of acrobatic and aerial performers and animal acts comprise the circus performance.

3-Way Truck Crash Occurs on Route 29 Near Phoenixville

A hauling truck driven by a Roversford man had $50 damage in the second half of a three-way truck crash on Route 29 three miles south of Phoenixville yesterday morning at about 7 o'clock.

Harvey Obenshine, 54, of 319 Washington street was driving north on the highway when he was hit by the southbound truck driven by Charles Allen Tabb, 47, of Phoenixville.

Tabb had veered to his left to avoid the third truck driven by Vic or Kulp, 35, of Phoenixville, which had run off the road and hit a stump.

Paul State Trooper John Coll was investigating the two accidents, estimating damage to Tabb's and Kulp's trucks at $150 and $400 respectively. No one was injured.

SCHOOL JOINTURE — permit Limerick to seek a joint re with an agreeable school district on the secondary level. A second resolution in forms Kulp Limerick is hoping to form that jointure with Lower Pottsgrove.

Limerick sounded out Lower Pottsgrove several months ago on a possible jointure because Pottstown school board has informed Limerick it will not be able to accommodate its junior and senior high school tuition pupils after the 1962-63 school year.

LOWER POTTSGROVE, which also sends pupils to Pottstown has been considering the jointure because of ever increasing tuition costs.

At its July meeting in the district elementary school the Limerick board awarded contracts for fuel oil supply and the paving of a parking area and widening of the driveway to the school and approved a 182-day school calendar for next year.

Walter F. Schwab of Pottstown was awarded the oil contract on his low bid of 601 cents per gallon. Losing bidders were John R. Young and company of Hendricks, 9516 and William Beall of Pottstown, 981.

W. R. Coasdale of Limerick Church road won the paving and widening contracts without opposition on a bid of $550 for the parking area and $250 for the driveway.

SPRINKLING BAN —

Tuesday. The partial ban permitted lawn sprinkling from 9 p.m. to 9 a.m. daily.

SEARS REPORTED after a tour of Linden apartments and Maple Gardens, 18 second floor families in the Linden development had no water.

Maple Gardens residents had plenty of water but this was attributed to a booster pump installed by Paul A. Kelsner, owner. The borough manager explained the pump was picking up water at 10 pounds pressure and sending it into homes at 40 pounds. Pressure was low Tuesday night because the booster pump was not properly adjusted.

Sears said pressure at the Evans and Peach streets pumping stations has dropped since the past week.

He blamed the condition on lack of rain. He said, "We need rain badly for the sake of the water supply. He explained the shortage was not due to a shortage of water in the river, but was a main distribution on shortage or capacity shortage."

Sears emphasized the pressure of rain "there would be no reason for sprinkling" retraction and promised to lift the ban just as soon as pressure builds up.

Grass Fires Fought in East End, Stowe

Grass fires that broke out with in an hour of each other in the East End and in Stowe early yesterday morning were extinguished quickly by Good Will and West End fire companies.

The Goodies' call was to a big field near the corner of Moore road and Center avenue. Edward Seeders, who drove the pumper, reported that children apparently had ignited a tiny bonfire at about 12:30 o'clock.

Less than an hour later West End extinguished a small fire in a vacant lot between East Vine and Glasgow streets near Elm street. Chief Roy M. Eagle reported that booster lines and in-line pumps checked flames before they endangered any buildings.

Damage was negligible at both fires.

At the 10 a. m. departmental meeting in the main tent, Elder E. A. Robertson, educational secretary for the Columbia Union conference, told the Adventists, "The most important work for time and eternity is in the moulding of the life of the child."

Said Elder Robertson, "Christian education ranks high as an evangelizing agency. In 1880, Adventists had but one church school and one college with about 500 students. Today we have 250,000 young people enrolled in church schools, academies and colleges."

POPULAR EDUCATION denies the existence of God as the creator, said Elder Robertson, and evolution has wormed itself into the very structure of secular education.

He concluded, "There are some values which cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents. Adventist education does not cost—it pays."

Alan Anderson, Washington D. C. lay preacher, addressed the preaching service in the young people's tent on the topic "The 12 Views of the Cross."

During the afternoon family hour in the main tent Mrs. Isabella Cunningham of Oak wood college, Huntsville, Ala. outlined the proper methods to be used by parents in rearing children.

Today's schedule of speakers in the main tent includes: Elder Howard D. Warner, publishing department secretary at the 6:30 a. m. devotional service; Elder William R. Robinson, home missionary and Sabbath school secretary at the 10 a. m. departure.

Musicians Are Mad!

If You Watch Them Record

By MFL WRITER
(Central Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, July 2 — All musicians are, of course, mad. It is not until you see them making their demented way through a recording session, however, that you understand exactly how off-beam they are.

Most of America's largest recording studios are here in Manhattan—and a little time spent drifting through them watching everyone from a jazz pianist to a coloratura soprano performing for the microphone can be enormously educational.

When Metropolitan Opera singer Rise Stevens steps up to wax a disc, as the trade papers put it—laymen in the studio are howled over to see her husband expatriate on her neck.

The explanation is well explained if not simple. The husband, Walter Surowski, tells you politely that it is an old Czechoslovakian ceremony to bring good luck. It seems to work. Miss Stevens hasn't turned out a bad record yet.

ONE OF THE top two piano teams in the land is that of Isaac Lowe and Buck Whittemore. If you are around when they are recording, you will discover that they will not allow proceedings to begin until they are sure they have in their pockets the cigar lighters they received years ago at a ship's concert when they made one of their first public appearances.

However, the piano players go further than good luck pieces. The talented Amparo Iturbe, sister of Jose (Boogie Woogie) often can be found stretched out on the studio floor while listening to playbacks of records she just has made. Claims it relaxes her.

Dick Liebert, who plays the organ in Radio City Music Hall, actually has been known to sit on his head on a piano top during a session. He says it increases his circulation, but we of course know it to be musicians' mania.

If you watch Mario Lanza recording, you will see that glass shattering tenor spend the minutes before his performance whimpering like a puppy. To relax his larynx, he comments.

PEEKY COMO is almost normal, except he won't record in a starched shirt, has to be swathed in sport shirt and slacks.

Wanda Landowska is a national reeds orchestra when she cigar in his mouth while violinist mont records usually at her home in Nathan Milstein wraps a blue cashmere scarf around his throat when all musicians are mad.

slippers, munches on fresh fruit he sets out to ripple a few ca-Pama skin between takes.

Many are the souls who like to sing in their stocking feet among these are Patrice Munsel, Liza Kirk and Miss Stevens. Tuscanini wouldn't think of filling a record date without licorice drops and sugar cubes on hand. Kirsten Flagstad drinks tea. Pina Blos puts of coffee.

Iturbi plays the piano and directs orchestras with an unlighted what's good in the fourth at Belviore. They understand naturally that mere scarf around his throat when all musicians are mad.

HOUSE PROBES MASS KILLINGS

Communist Massacres
Termed by Committee
'Criminal Extermination'

WASHINGTON, July 2 — A special House committee today charged the Russians with the criminal extermination of 1,000 Polish officers in 1940. More than 4000 of them were shot or hanged alive in Katyn forest near Smolensk.

The committee's formal report follows a nine-month investigation of the Katyn massacre.

It noted a striking similarity between Katyn and atrocities reported from Korea. The members agreed unanimously that Katyn may well have been a blueprint for Korea.

Chairman Madden (D Ind) urged Congress to begin a special investigation of Korean atrocities during the next session.

The committee or mind to investigate Katyn recommended that its evidence be presented to the United Nations General Assembly with the request that Russia be charged before the World Court with an international crime.

Young men trying to get ahead in the world usually start at the bottom—but Kevin Sheridan 9 and Charlie Zammit 8 reverse the procedure. They've started their art careers at the top—the roof top camp to be exact of the Madison Square Boys' Club in New York. As they sketch the Empire State building, Robert Ryan 17 kibitzing.

Voter Turnout Object Of Chamber Meeting

Chamber of Commerce's committee on governmental affairs will discuss what can be done to make Pottstowners vote conscientiously at a noon meeting in the Howard Johnson restaurant today.

Truman D. Weller, program advisor of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will explain steps considered essential to get out the vote at the November presidential election.

The committee wants to get every eligible voter in the borough registered for the election.

Weller will explain at the 12:10 p.m. session what other cities are doing to make voters take an interest in the election.

Representatives of the CIO Political Action Committee, Boy Scouts, the League of Women Voters and Kiwanis, interested in a get-out-the-voters program, will attend.

GOP IS DRAFTING FOREIGN POLICY

Republican Planners
Nearing Agreement on Plank Scoring Democrats

CHICAGO, CHICAGO, July 2 (UP)—Republican platform drafters were reported tonight to be approaching agreement on a foreign policy plank that would (1) denounce Truman's failures to halt world Communism and (2) promise a new way of getting the job done.

Platform committee members kept mum on the details. But they predicted the plank would contain a fiery indictment of the conduct of foreign affairs by the Roosevelt- Truman administrations, as well as offer the nation hope for greater international security.

The major task of putting such a plank together was in the hands of John Foster Dulles, GOP expert on foreign policy. He was working under mutual agreement of the major contenders for the party's presidential nomination—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio.

Dulles—who has been in close contact with both the Taft and Eisenhower camps—predicted the plank would outline a major departure in this country's efforts to halt any further spread of Communism.

Monitors of French Republican Guard de mass bandstand on parallel bars at inauguration of National Center of Physical Education and Sports, Jolville near Paris

IT ALSO recommended that President Truman be asked to press for the creation of an international commission to investigate numerous other crimes against humanity perpetrated by totalitarian powers. The committee said the Katyn probe barely scratches the surface.

Madden told a news conference that strong United Nations action could stop international murders. But he said if the U.N. does not act, this epidemic of lawlessness probably will grow.

The House probably will not act on the recommendations until the next session.

The report said the Polish officers disappeared from Russian prison camps presumably to join a Polish Army being raised to fight the Germans.

For nearly two years Polish officials, trying to locate them, received evasive answers from Moscow authorities, including Stalin.

THE OFFICERS said the report already had been killed by the NKVD (secret police) in a calculated plot to eliminate the Polish leaders who subsequently would have opposed the Soviet plans for Communizing Poland.

I said the Communists in Korea very bad years, the annual ring failed to account for thousands of captured United Nations soldiers including Americans and South Koreans.

The Communists delaying tactics in the Korean peace talks today may be from the same clock as the nebulous replies received from the Soviets by the Poles in 1941-42 while they searched for their missing officers, the report stated.

German authorities found the bodies of 4230 Polish officers at Katyn in 1941. The report said at least two other Katyns exist—a second near Kharkov, Russia, and the third, most probably in the White Sea, where about 6300 Poles were drowned.

At one point in the Persian Gulf drinking water is obtained from the bottom of the sea, where his fire water spring discharge.

The accident occurred on the Bechtelsville farm of John R. Grubb. A fellow worker of Sabold's stopped the wagon on a hill when a couple of bales fell off the wagon.

The bales on which Sabold was standing slid out from under him as he and the other worker were placing the fallen bales back on the wagon.

Gen. Van Fleet Goes To Pusan; Expected To Meet With Rhee

PUSAN, Korea, Thursday, July 3 (UP)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet, ap parently concerned about the Republic of Korea's continuing political strife, arrived last night for an expected meeting today with President Syngman Rhee.

One Korean leader who met the Eighth Army commander said Van Fleet expressed concern that the political strife might affect United Nations military operations at the front. Prime Minister Chang Taek Sang and 10 national assemblymen camped in the National Assembly hall all night in a marathon effort to change the Republic's constitution.

They were trying to encourage absentee lawmakers to appear and vote for several constitutional amendments to state off Rhee's threatening dissolution of the Assembly.

Rhee demands amendments which would provide for election of the president by the people rather than by the Assembly, a majority of whose members oppose him. He also wants a Senate and a House to replace the present single house assembly.

Nations Ask Germ War Probe

UNITED NATIONS N. Y., July 2 (AP)—A majority of the Security Council today endorsed an American proposal for a full on-the-spot investigation of Red germ warfare charges.

But Russia's Jacob A. Malik sat silent and unheeding from his determination to veto the proposal when a vote is taken. Malik spent the entire council session reading the Soviet news paper Pravda or various documents. He did not put on the ear phones to listen to any interpretation of any speech. Once he strolled out into the delegates' lounge but no one spoke to him and he made no effort to speak to anyone.

Later, Malik let it be known in a cloak room conversation that he intended to go home to Moscow for consultations about 10 days.

Joao Carlos Muniz, Brazil's foreign minister, said he would veto the U. S. resolution for an investigation because Malik knew what would be the result of such a check. Muniz said Malik's declaration in the council yesterday giving notice of the veto and his attacks on the U. S. showed that the idea of peaceful co-existence fostered by Prime Minister Stalin has been repudiated. He said he fully supported the U. S. proposal.

D. I. Von Balluseck, The Netherlands backed the U. S. view and said the charges that the U. S. forces in Korea where Holland has troops also were an insult to his country. He told Malik who paid no attention although he can understand English—that no one can split the unity of the U. N. effort in Korea.

ALEXIA KYROU, Greece said the Russians often have cried war monger against Americans and others but that Malik's charges and the Kremlin's hate campaign against the U. S. definitely deserve the label war monger. Adil Derincu, Turkey backed the U. S. view.

Dr. William McD. Hammon in charge of the experiment said this was the only way to test the theory that paralysis can be prevented by the blood fraction. A team of experts will remain here through the polo season in the fall to check on children inoculated.

Hundreds Take Polio Injection

HOUSTON, Tex., July 2 (AP)—Tiny tots will be known for months probably early in 1953.

Hammon and his staff expect some of the children inoculated to contract polio. If they do and whether paralysis develops will tell the success of this first mass experiment with gamma globulin against paralysis.

The University of Pittsburgh professor stressed that gamma globulin can't prevent polio, but that from tests on mice and monkeys he believes it can prevent paralysis. A pilot test on 5768 children at Provo, Utah the past year was not on a big enough scale to be conclusive, he said.

The one to six age bracket was the one in which the researchers said 50 percent of all polio probably will occur. Was it worth it?

Many parents in Houston weren't waiting to see if the experiment was a success or to take a chance on not getting the gamma globulin. They were paying private doctors to have their children inoculated.

AS THE inoculation got under way the epidemic of polio that gripped Houston had reached 166 Sun Moon planets and stars all city cases and six deaths this year. 112 county cases and four periods deaths and 304 out of county cases and six deaths.

Hoover Denies Sending Wire to GOP Committee

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—A mystery developed today after (1) the Republican national committee made public a telegram signed 'Herbert Hoover' and (2) the former President's New York office said he had not sent it.

The 16-word message read: 'Absolute freedom of the press to discuss public questions is a foundation stone of American liberty.'

The national committee said it had been received before yesterday's 60-40 vote to ban tele vision and other cameras as well as radio microphones from committee contest sessions.

According to the Ptolemaic system the earth was fixed at the center of the universe with the stars all vision and other cameras as well as radio microphones from committee contest sessions.

Taft Sets His Sights On 1st Ballot Victory

Senator Gets 17 Ga. Votes

CHICAGO July 2 (U.P.)—Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio grabbed 17 Georgia votes today and set his sights on a first ballot victory in the National convention that meets here Monday to pick a Republican presidential candidate.

"There may not be a second ballot," the Ohio Senator told a news conference.

Readers for Sen. Dwight D. Eisenhower refused to let their man be counted out that easily or quickly.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge publicly gave up hope of winning an important victory from the Republican National committee but predicted better treatment on the convention floor.

TODAY ALL the Eisenhower camp had for solace was a favorable nod from the committee on a single delegate dispute in Kansas. And the outcome on that never had been in doubt.

Eisenhower forces in fact took their worst shelling and Taft supporters racked up their greatest victory of the pre-convention maneuvering today.

That was when the National committee voted 52 to 39 to seat a solidly pro-Taft Georgia delegation and unhorse a pro-Eisenhower faction that has represented the Georgia GOP at national conventions since 1944.

The vote established this with dead certainty.

Taft forces operating with precision and plenty of power are in almost complete control of the convention machinery at this point. So far everything has gone Taft's way, and there were four more delegate contests still to be refereed.

Appropriation Bills For Gov't. Agencies Passed by Congress

WASHINGTON July 2 (U.P.)—Congress passed and sent to the President tonight four bills appropriating more than $4 billion dollars for various Government departments and agencies.

In rapid fire order, first the House and then the Senate approved the compromise money measures worked out by Senate House conferees.

By departments the bills appropriate these amounts for the fiscal year ending next June 30: Agriculture department $728,611,900. The President requested $49,040,828.

Independent offices $62,283,500. The President asked $6,982,804.

Labor department $211,006,339. The President wanted $228,086,100.

Federal Security agency $1,662,885,011. The President sought $1,440,948,261.

National Labor Relations board and related agencies $13,777,500. The President wanted $14,536,500.

Governors Demand Delegate Barring

HOUSTON, Tex., July 2 (U.P.)—Twenty-three Republican governors voiced today a powerful demand to bar contested delegates from voting on the admission of disputed colleagues to the Republican National convention.

In a surprise move that was regarded here as a heavy blow at the presidential nomination hopes of Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the governors said in a statement any other course would put the party under a serious moral cloud.

Both supporters of Taft and Sen. Dwight D. Eisenhower the Ohioan's chief rival for the nomination joined in the statement.

Gov. Allan Shivers, Democrat of Texas, was elected new chairman of the conference succeeding Republican Gov. Val Peterson of Nebraska.

Shivers told reporters he hoped to continue the non-partisan poli-

Union Request Is Not Met by Republic Steel

CLEVELAND July 2 (U.P.)—Republic Steel corporation in its latest move today to strip CIO United Steel workers the request for a union shop placed labor and Republic negotiators in an impossible position.

Charles M. White, Republic president, said this in a statement with regard to an announcement by William F. Donovan, district director of the CIO United Steel workers here and the union's head negotiator at Republic.

Donovan said — and White confirmed — that Republic refused Monday to approve a strike-ending agreement similar to that signed Saturday by the Pittsburgh Steel company. Donovan said he made that offer to Republic.

The Pittsburgh contract calls for minimum 12-1/2 cents hourly wage increases and a modified union shop subject to change after all steel strikes end.

THESE ARE the same terms offered to steel's big six in New York the past week and rejected said White. The big six are U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Jones and Laughlin, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Inland.

When the union takes an adamant stand that a man must join the union in order to work for Republic we simply reach an impossible position and that is where we are today, said White.

The modified union shop permits any new employees to withdraw from the union if he notifies management or the union of his intention by registered letter between his 20th and 30th day of employment. Under the steel firms' present contracts any employee can join or reject the union as he sees fit.

Gov'ts Accused

LONDON July 2 (U.P.)—Britain, Sweden and Denmark today accused the Communist governments of Bulgaria and Romania of violating international rules in extending their territorial waters to 12 nautical miles.

Territorial waters are generally limited to three miles off the shores of a country.

The British Foreign office said Britain's protest note was made in concert with the Swedish government. The Danish protest followed.

MUNICH Thursday July 2 (U.P.)—Gen. James A. Van Fleet said Wednesday that much heavier air blows could force the Communists into signing a Korean armistice. He called for more air power to do the job.

Subcommittee Claims Lattimore Aided Reds

WASHINGTON July 2 (U.P.)—A Senate subcommittee accused Owen Lattimore today of intentionally serving Communist purposes and of living to the committee on at least five points.

The group recommended perjury action against Lattimore and against John P. Davies Jr., a State department official whom the report also accused of giving untrue testimony.

Davies, now deputy director of political affairs for the U.S. High Commission at Bonn said in Germany that "I certainly deny allegations of perjury." The subcommittee said he is falsely denied, that he recommended persons with Communist connections for intelligence jobs.

Lattimore withheld comment pending issuance of a formal statement through his attorneys. The points on which he is accused of living range from his testimony that Outer Mongolia was independent of the Soviets up to World War II to the question whether Lattimore arranged to have a student report a committee hearing for him.

Lattimore in a formal statement through an attorney late in the day said the call for perjury action is "fantastic."

Army Rotation To Step Up Draft

WASHINGTON July 2 (U.P.)—The Army acted today to replace about 100,000 soldiers who will complete their service terms in the coming 12 months.

In simultaneous announcements the Army forecast stepped up draft quota beginning in October and ordered all units in the United States to produce trained enlisted men to take the place of overseas veterans.

A September draft call for 50,000 men was coupled with an estimated requirement for 14,000 draftees in each of the last three months of this year. This latter figure is the highest number of conscripts requested by the Army since March 1951.

Fate of South Bound With Demos—Truman

American Priests Kidnapped by Reds

BERLIN July 2 (U.P.)—Three touring American priests and their German woman driver were snatched up on the Berlin border by rifle-waving Communist police today and rushed into Russian captivity.

The three young priests from the Chicago diocese were wearing their clerical collars when they strayed a few feet over the line in the Soviet zone and pointed a camera at a Russian officer.

He immediately ordered a black-booted Communist police detachment into action and they forced the priests' car behind a Soviet checkpoint barrier. The car was confiscated.

Elizabeth N. J. European director for the National Catholic Welfare conference at Frankfurt said the priests were not connected with CRALOG or NCWC. He listed the four as Martin Borowick, George Gorski, Bronislaus Sokolowski and Mrs. Katherine Wintler, the mother of two children and a Berlin employee of NCWC.

In Chicago Catholic sources said the three priests were native Americans. All three studied at St. Mary's of the Lake seminary in Mundelein, a Chicago suburb.

NOTES WITH MAJORITY

WASHINGTON July 2 (U.P.)—Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.) voted with the majority tonight as the Senate passed the fair trade bill 61-16 and sent it to the White House. Pennsylvania's other GOP senator, James H. Duff, was not listed as voting.

No Party Bolt Is Prediction

BULL SHOALS DAM Ark., July 2 (U.P.)—President Truman bluntly warned the South today that its welfare is wrapped up in the Democratic party and predicted there will be no bolt.

In a major address dedicating the Bull Shoals and Norfolk dams and in whistlestop speeches formally opening the Democratic presidential campaign, Truman said he would not seek reelection at his age because he did not want to be carried out of the White House feet first.

The President told a train-side crowd at Batesville, Ark., in mid-afternoon and later at the Newport airport just before leaving for Washington that the government in Washington has them in mind in its actions.

There is not a man or woman in this audience who is not better off as a result of 20 years of Democratic rule," he said. Truman drew shouts of "no no" from the Batesville crowd when he said "now if you want to throw that out the window and go off after false gods that is your business and I can't stop you."

Take A Tip From Hollywood For A Striking Wardrobe

In Hollywood there are special wide shoulders and slender frame girls who plan the wardrobes of whose lines seem somewhat out of proportion. She should wear developed the dress sense which clothes with plenty of textured interest. Her sports clothes should be striking instead of the tailored type. Tweeds with plenty of color contrast will break up the tall to be born with the knowledge thin silhouette give the figure. They are the ones who are ladies more character. She's the girl whose appearance is enhanced when she floats about with a full bouffant skirt. Her shoulders should be covered. She is not the baroness type. The more fabric nothing but dry goods on another fullness at the hips the better.

THERE IS THE woman with Norma Shearer, Bette Davis, Lucille Ball and Jennifer Jones are examples to follow. They know precisely what kind of clothes will give them a keen survey. You may pick up ideas that you can apply to your own sartorial problems.

IF THE BALANCE in the check book happens to be in a state of shrinkage and you feel that you can't add any new frocks to your wardrobe at the present time go in for perfect grooming and dainty accessories—sheer nylons of pleasing color shoes that are not too decorative since the plainer ones are smarter for everyday wear a few gay scarves nifty handbag.

As for grooming watch those white gloves a bit of soil and the picture that is YOU is all wrong. Don't postpone the shampoo date. Find a hairdresser who will give you a new arrangement of your hirsute mop. Then you'll be on your toes without breaking into your piggy bank.

Wise Women Learn Tricks to Packing Luggage for Men

If there is one gift that a man really does appreciate use and en joy it is a handsome piece of luggage. One of the main reasons is that men most frequently use their luggage while on business trips and the type of case does seem to be an indication of status, prestige or something.

At any rate, while we girls may compromise or experiment with nylon plastic and other pieces, the menfolk sort of enjoy a classy piece of leather luggage that is rugged and mellow. Watch a group of men weighing in at the air terminal baggage counter or at a railroad station and you'll catch many a covert glance at a teach other's luggage, and looks of ad miration for the really fine cases.

BUT NO MATTER what type of case, plastic or leather, the main thing is that it transport its con tents properly and this is only possible if said contents are prop erly packed. So let's start pack ing a two-suit, the most popular piece of luggage for a man.

To pack a suit, pack the trousers with the front of the legs in a straight line across the bottom of the case with the seat towards the handle. Let legs hang over the sides. If you're packing two or more pairs of trousers, place the first pair with top at left and legs hanging over the right side, the side the second pair with top at right and legs hanging over the left side.

PLACE JACKET on the hanger and before fastening, handle in case, straighten out all wrinkles. Never button the jacket. Straight en the suspenders and bring the sleeve over a little until it is in a straight line, pretty much parallel with the side seam of the jacket.

Anchor the center board, but leave the bottom of the jacket hanging over the edge while you repeat the procedure with the second jacket. Then fold the sleeves of the second jacket over the center board and follow with the bot tom of the jacket, smoothing out all wrinkles. Do the same with coat number one.

Fold trouser leg over the suit jacket, first from one side, then from the other. Now you can bring down the covering sheet and fasten it. You're all through with the suit.

Pack shoes and dressing, razor shaving tackle, etc. along bottom of case with heels on top to avoid wrinkling. Place ties and under wear on top of hats. Stow socks, handkerchiefs, and other odds and ends into any available empty space, even in easing the case in or out of the trunk.

Britain's 'Own Margaret' Sports New Look Hairdo

LONDON, July 2.—Pretty Princess Margaret has a new look—her haircut, darker red lipstick and a hint of mascara under her violet colored eyes.

Margaret's new hairdo—short and dressed in soft chunky curls—high up at the back, fills in the rather black gap which some girls show between the back of the hat and the end curls one woman correspondent said. Margaret's backless hat now looks as pretty from the back as from the front, she added. The 21-year-old princess, always stylish, has worn her soft dark brown hair medium long in the past. A new white feather trimmed hat—without a back—may have brought on the short haircut.

Sheila, the inside of her hair drawer, to prevent atmospheric conditions from affecting the wood, they will slide monthly regard less of damp weather.

New Directory More Complete; 25,000 Listed

Bovertown appears for the first time, and Pottstown appears in a brighter light in the new street directory made available yesterday.

Stowe, Kanawha and Kenilworth also are given increased recognition.

Altogether, the directory lists the names of approximately 25,000 adult residents and area firms. The book has 700 pages compared to the 550 of the last previous street directory, published two years ago.

Bovertown has an independent page section at the back of the directory which is published by R. L. Polk and Company incorporated.

IN PREVIOUS directories the only Bovertown names included were those of some of the Bovertown residents working in Pottstown.

In the preface to the Pottstown section the community's 200-year history is given in 14 lines instead of the previous one, and major points in the area but out of the borough such as Ursinus college and French Creek State park are mentioned for the first time.

There also has been added a variety of facts such as the average summer temperature in the borough (71 degrees) and the distances from Pottstown to Philadelphia and Atlantic City (58 and 100 miles).

Streets in Stowe, Kanawha and Kenilworth are listed for the first time in the section where you can find out who lives at such an address.

And township officials of West Pottsgrove, Lower Pottsgrove and North Coventry are listed for the first time.

As usual it pays to consult the abbreviations and how-to-use section where you can learn for instance that "Brant"—Robert L. (D) meat etc. h w S Township Line rd 8 & Benjamin Franklin highway San means that Robert L. Brant husband of D. Elaine Brant lives on the west side of the Township Line road eight paces south of Route 422 in Stowe.

FIRE COMPANIES —

They want, council may be asked to add a fourth company — North End — to those getting appropriations.

North End has hundreds of members but no building or equipment. Decision on the company's request for permission to build near Charlotte and Prospect streets is pending in Montgomery county court.

OFFICERS OF the three fire fighting companies pointed out that the biggest reason a substantial increase in the borough appropriation is needed is that revenue from the companies' social quarters recently has declined from 60 to 75 percent.

Henry G. Schmoever, longtime president of the Phillies mentioned that the borough now gives each of the three fire fighting companies $8500. But Schmoever said for every dollar that the borough puts up we put up two.

The Phillies have a total budget for fire fighting of more than $27,000. This sum does not include hose, most of which is bought by the borough.

In addition the companies have such expenses as those of the firemen's parade tomorrow which they are staging as part of the bicentennial celebration.

Schmoever said he felt a substantial increase in the appropriation would be needed. The exact sum he emphasized must wait until the fire companies can complete the long job of preparing the year budget and revenue estimates.

The appropriation request will be presented in the Fall.

THE PHILLIES president mentioned that Reading, Coatesville and Downingtown are among the many communities where the municipal government pays for equipment and apparatus of their volunteer companies. Pottstown fire companies buy their own.

The $8500 does little more than pay the salaries of the companies' paid drivers and part of building maintenance. The three companies have seven full time men.

In addition Schmoever noted the companies have to purchase a steady supply of such items as gas masks, new type extinguishers, ladders and nozzles. As an example of operating costs Schmoever estimated that it costs each company $200 to $300 to fight a major fire.

Leslie D. Rhoads, Goodies president for six years, agreed with Schmoever by saying, "If they're going to continue to operate above the line figure (out of the red) the companies are going to have to get a lot more money."

As an example of rising costs Rhoads mentioned that a new equipped pumper could be purchased for $18,000 five years ago but now would cost close to $25,000.

RHOADS ALSO pointed out that fire companies cannot afford to try high pressure fund raising methods on their members to make up for the recent losses in revenue and the rise in costs.

He explained that high pressure selling might antagonize the men who roll out of bed at all hours and in all weather to fight fires. Every time you lose an active fireman it really hurts, Rhoads said.

Richard Moser, veteran chief of the Hooks, agreed that a substantial increase was needed badly. I don't know how this thing is going to end up but something pretty strong has got to be done.

He said that what was true of the Phillies budget picture was true of the Hooks'. Moser added that the fire companies had been unable to build up their treasuries in recent years because of the large lump sums required to buy new apparatus.

Two of the three companies need new apparatus: the Goodies a third up-to-date ambulance and the Phillies a replacement for their 1934 pumper.

The Goodies have a 194 pumper, a 1916 pumper that's still good, a 1939 auxiliary truck and the three ambulances.

The Hook have a 1942 four-truck and two pumps, one only two years old and the other a 1935 pumper.

The Phillies have a new pumper, two old ones and an emergency truck.

Police Chief Looks Over Wreck

George Meyer, Collegeville police chief, inspects the twisted wreckage of the automobile which was driven by Howard B. Keyser, supervising principal of the Collegeville Trappe Joint High School. The car was struck last night by a tractor trailer operated by Raymond Overholser, Birdsboro RD 2 as Keyser made a left turn into the lane of oncoming traffic to enter the driveway of his home at 732 Main street, Collegeville. Getting ready to fasten the tow chain is Clinton Bishop, employee of a Collegeville garage.

KEYSER HURT —

front of him from the opposite side of the highway as he was headed in the direction toward Philadelphia.

Mrs. Keyser said she was sitting at the window of her home at 732 Main street, Collegeville, at 7:50 o'clock and that she saw her husband's car stop in front of her house on the opposite side of the highway facing Pottstown.

She said her husband had begun to drive across the highway to enter the driveway when the truck bore down upon him striking the left front and spinning it around in the opposite direction.

Passersby extricated her husband and took him into her home where she frantically called for doctors.

After several calls she contacted Dr. F. P. Burns of Royersford. Dr. Burns ordered Keyser's removal to Memorial hospital.

Keyser was taken to the hospital by the Trappe Community ambulance.

Dr. Burns followed the ambulance to the hospital and treated his patient there.

Second Body Found In Collapsed Mine

LYKENS July 2 (U)—The second victim of a slide in an independent mine was found dead today, buried beneath tons of rock and coal.

Rescue workers located the body of Allen Sedesse, 28, father of four, pre-school children, after two days of round-the-clock digging through the debris of the fall. They worked in short shifts.

Sedesse and Ellis Koecher, 31, were trapped by the fall on Woodard. Koecher's body was recovered yesterday.

As a safety measure, Gordon Smith, State mine inspector, ordered all independent mines in the Lykens area closed. There are five of them, home-made coal holes, usually leased from an operating company and worked by a small group of miners.

The townspeople of this Upper Merion county community immediately started discussing ways of helping Sedesse's widow, who was unable to buy a cemetery lot to bury her husband.

Paralyzing Typhoon Rages in Philippines

MANILA Thursday, July 4 (U)—A typhoon with buzz saw winds up to 115 miles an hour at its center rampaged across six islands of the South Central Philippines last night and today, had headed into the South China Sea.

Unfired destruction was left in its wake. Communications were smashed and no one here knew the exact situation in the disaster area.

The storm center passed only 10 miles northeast of Iloilo, third largest city in the islands with a population of 110,000. Earlier it moved over Cebu, city's second biggest, swamping communications, flooding vast tracts of farmland and paralyzing all transportation, air, land and sea.

Look Further Before Making Choice

"Some people say it is impossible to be in love with two people at the same time, but I am telling you what to do." So ends the letter of a young woman who may think she is unique in believing herself to be in love with two young men at once. But who, like many another who has had the same idea is quite mistaken.

Over a year ago I met and fell in love with a young man of 23. We had a lot of fun together.

men eventually he asked me to marry him I told him I didn't think I was ready for marriage yet.

Everything would have been fine if it hadn't been for the fact that after the first boy entered the service I met another one whom I like equally well. I wrote to H the first boy—frequently, and he'd hold nothing back from him—but told him frankly that I was dating J—the second boy—and also told him a lot of fun together, and he also asked me to marry him, but I gave him the same answer I had given to H.

Now both boys are in the service and I write to both of them frequently to speak of our future together in their letters, although I have given neither a definite yes or no.

TODAY'S HOROSCOPE

Do not be discouraged as your business prospects may prove better than you expect, and a fair measure of success appears certain during the months ahead. Children's child may be healthiest, but moderate success seems assured.

"I DON'T know how to decide between these two boys both of whom say they are in love with me. I never date anyone these days because I have no desire to spend my time with anyone else."

 Where this young woman of 20 makes her big mistake" of course is in refusing to have dates with any other young men. For unless she gives herself the chance to know other boys well she will face a tough time getting herself out of her present dilemma. At present she is sitting around day dreaming about H and J exclusively.
 J, romantically fancying herself in love with both. It never enters her head that if she were to broaden her acquaintance, and become acquainted with as many other men as possible it might help her to make up her mind or that she could even discover someone she could care about far more than she could care about either of the two on whom she is concentrating right now.

Perhaps she can realize what she is doing more readily if we put it in the form of a simple little illustration. Let's say, she is in mind to buy a dress. She goes out and brings home two dresses, both of which she likes very much. She then shuts her self up in her room with the two dresses and tries to decide which of them she wants to keep, but finds it impossible to choose. So she goes right on sitting there staring at the dresses, unable to make a definite choice between them.

Harold Warner son of Mr and Mrs Paul Wagner, 57 Riverside avenue, Kenilworth, aged two years.

Mrs Harrison Schaeffer, 24 East Fifth street.

Yesterday

IS THAT really the way she could go about even such a comparatively minor matter as acquiring a new dress? Of course not. What else would be to look at a large number of dresses, familiarizing herself with all different styles and colors before she made her selection.

Of course, if she followed the plan of trying to make herself decide between just two dresses, she could paralyze her power of choice indefinitely—as she is doing now in her thinking about the two boys, by assuring herself that she "loved" both frocks. But the point is that she would not proceed that way. She would look at everything before committing her self to it. And afterward when she accomplished her "loved" even now she might regret the fact that she had so arbitrarily limited her choice.

There is no need to pursue this

Housewives Lose Battle

Five of the twelve Marshall Tex. housewives who rebelled against withholding and collecting for the Government social security taxes on the wages of their household servants are shown in Dallas Federal Court after they lost the first round of their legal battle. The court ruled that the Government was within its power in demanding that the tax be withheld and paid. The housewives' attorney said he would appeal to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Man Injures Back In Fall; Hospitalized

A 50-year-old Pottstown man was admitted to Pottstown hospital at noon yesterday with back injuries suffered in a fall at work.

George Bakalar, 106 King street, was injured after he was driven from Robinson Clay Product company plant in a Good Will ambulance manned by Edward Seeders and Raymond Bauer.

Hospital authorities said preliminary indications were that he had no serious back injury, but a final X-ray report must wait until today.

A company spokesman said Bakalar was riding on a trailer in the plant's big yard and he apparently slipped and fell off. He was not moved until the ambulance arrived, lest the moving aggravate the injury.

His condition last night was good.

First Quadruple Amputee of Korea War Drives Away From Hospital in Automobile

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Small said see friends and to give some thing from behind the wheel of his specially equipped green sedan.

Corp. Robert L. Smith, the first quadruple amputee of the Korean War, drove off from Walter Reed hospital today and headed for his Pennsylvania home.

Wearing an artificial hand, the 21-year-old soldier eased the car away from the hospital's main entrance and set off alone on the 183-mile trip to Middleburg.

Among those who gathered to say goodbye was Maj. Gen. Paul H. Street, commanding general of the hospital.

That makes our work really worth while," Street commented as he watched the car roll down the driveway.

BOB'S FINAL departure was about a year and a half and nine operations after he arrived at Walter Reed on a near-zero December day in 1950.

But he'll return for visits, he said.

About 40 pounds lighter and an inch and a half shorter than when he entered the Army April 18, 1950, Bob was looking fit and healthy in a light blue suit and figured tie as he faced a battery of photographers and reporters today.

He now weighs 115 and stands 5 feet 11 inches.

He said he felt fine, was looking forward to being home with his widowed mother, Mrs. Clara E. Smith, but had no immediate plans—matrimonial or otherwise—for the future.

New Jet Rocket Fighter Locates Enemy, Locks Onto Target, Aims, Fires by Itself

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—A jet describes it as most powerful single-engine airplane in the air force.

It also says that the Starfire is the first Air Force fighting plane ever to have all rocket armament.

It has 24 Mighty Mouse 2.7 inch rockets in a ring of firing tube around the nose and can carry more rockets in new scope armament pods on the wings.

Another all-rocket plane, the North American F-86D Interceptor, is in production but apparently will not be available as soon as the Starfire, an Air Force spokesman said.

Today's announcement said the F-94C is in production and is being delivered to the Air Force.

The plane was designed as an all-weather interceptor to bring down aircraft that attempt to invade the United States.

Lockheed Aircraft Corporation calls it the most powerful single engine airplane in production today.

one of the world's fastest-climbing jet airplanes

It has a top speed of more than 600 miles an hour and climbs easily to bomber invasion lanes at altitudes above 45,000 feet.

Its combat radius is more than 500 miles. The combat radius usually represents about two-fifths of an airplane's range.

It is powered with the new Pratt and Whitney J-48 P-3 jet engine which develops a 6,250 pound thrust without afterburner. With afterburner, a Lockheed-developed device which reignites the jet exhaust, it has additional power for rapid takeoff or for extra performance in combat.

The Starfire is described as the first fighter plane equipped with a tail parachute for quick braking on short airstrips.

It has a pressurized, air-conditioned cockpit and is fitted with ejection seats and a canopy that can be jettisoned.

Subsidization Hit by Streit

NEW YORK, July 2 (AP)—With a blistering blast at College sports Judge Saul S. Streit today sentenced 11 fixers as a climax to the big basketball scandal.

They drew prison terms ranging from six months to as high as four to seven years.

Judge Streit urged jail penalties for college alumni boosters or officials who subsidize players. He warned that the nation's college basketball would be in peril if athletes in their own minds.

When the next scandal breaks, said the general sessions judge, it may destroy intercollegiate sports.

Then turning to the game fixers, the caustic Streit said that the nation's college basketball would be in peril if athletes in their own minds.

Bob Mathias Leads National Decathlon

TULARE, Calif., July 2 (AP)—The 1962 national decathlon moved into its final stage tonight with Tulare's famed Bob Mathias ahead of himself and the field in the competition for new honors and the three places on the U.S. Olympic team.

Mathias, 21-year-old junior at Stanford, headed into the final five decathlon events a virtual cinch to lead the three qualifiers for the team win his fourth national championship and probably set a new world record in the process.

The recognized record is 7444 (correct) points, an official revision by the International A.A.U. of Mathias' 1950 mark of 8042. The 444 point reflects a realization of the scoring system which in general downgrades the point awards in the 10 events.

Mathias was the main attraction for 6000 or so hometown rooters.

Secondary interest was the fight for the other two places on the Finland-bound team.

Milton Campbell, 18-year-old high school star from Plainfield, N.J., and two veteran decathlon men, Bill Albano and Floyd Simmons, Los Angeles Athletic club were the chief challengers.

Campbell was conceded an excellent chance of gaining a berth to keep alive a tradition—a thin but consistent string of high school athletes stretching back to 1912 who have made the U.S. Olympic team.

Campbell with his best marks in the 100 meter and high jump entered the finale with 4192 points. Albano, who completed in the 1948 Olympics as a hop skip and jump man, was runner up to Mathias in 1950's decathlon had 4109.

Simmons, runner up to champion Bob Richards in Mathias' absence last year and competing in his fifth national had 4000 points.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it.

A X Y L B A A X
I N L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's etc. Single letters, squarophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Charge of Perjury Fantastic to Lattimore

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—Owen Lattimore today branded as "fantastic" a Senate subcommittee's recommendation that perjury proceedings be brought against him in a statement. Lattimore also said a charge by the Senate internal security subcommittee that he was "an instrument of the Soviet conspiracy" is untrue. The text of Lattimore's statement: "I have already denied under oath any sympathy for or participation in Soviet activities. The new suggestion made by the McCarran committee that I was a conscious and articulate instrument of the Soviet conspiracy is untrue and is supported by no credible evidence. The further suggestion of the committee that I committed per jury or, indeed, that I had anything to do with perjury about, is as fantastic and base as the recent report that I was trying to leave the country without a passport. "I have been living for more than two years in the full glare of public investigations that have gone into every aspect of my life and opinions. However, I am quite prepared to assist any inquiry that may be considered necessary by any responsible authority.

Youth Pays JP $15 Costs to Gain Release From Jail

Donald A. Del Rossi, 20, of West Chester, RD 3, was released from the borough hall jail yesterday afternoon under his own recognizance after paying $15 costs levied by Seventh Ward Justice of the Peace Richard H. Cadmus. The youth was arrested Monday afternoon after being accused by the Citizens National bank of attempting to finance the purchase of an automobile under false pretenses. Del Rossi borrowed $500 from the bank after telling officials there he was 22 years old. He used the funds for a down payment on a 1950 convertible financing the remainder of the $1000 price with a Reading Finance company. Damages of $157.50 were incurred on the car while it was in Del Rossi's possession. At a hearing before Cadmus Tuesday, Del Rossi signed and transferred the title of the car to the bank which dropped prosecution on condition that he pay the damage cost to the car within 30 days. Del Rossi then signed a bond which released him after payment of $15 cost.

Attorney Informs County Safety Council Motor Vehicle Code Hinders Police Action

Speaking before the Montgomery County Safety Council at its recent meeting, Attorney James Ciola, solicitor for the Montgomery County Chiefs of Police Association, declared that certain sections of the Pennsylvania Motor Code fail to meet requirements for successful police action against motorist who violate these sections. Ciola specifically pointed out section 1002 of the code as having been set up unwittingly as an aid to the so-called "hot rod" and other violators. The result of all this, he said, is that when cases are brought into court many of them are thrown out because of the confusion and divergent opinions as to the meaning of sub sections and their application to violations. When this condition prevails Ciola continued it is not only embarrassing but humiliating to the police officers and acts as a deterrent in the performance of their duties. Under the present set up one may drive 50 or 10 miles an hour in a limited zone for a 35 mile per hour zone and he cannot be prosecuted for speeding or reckless driving. HE ALSO emphasized that prosecution can be brought against those who travel too slowly which can result in endangering traffic or otherwise contribute to a hazard or condition. Ciola's address on this subject was the second in a series planned by the safety council to enlighten its members on the provisions and application of certain sections of the motor code.

Mysteries Unsolved As Burglar Is Buried

PITTSBURGH, July 2 (AP)—A burglar who underwent brain surgery in the hope his urge to steal would be curbed was buried today as police throughout western Pennsylvania tried to unravel a string of confessed thefts which netted him $25,000 in loot. Services for Millard F. Wright, 42, were held at a North Side mortuary. Wright committed suicide Sunday at the Butler State police barracks by slashing his arm and hanging himself. Police arrested Wright two weeks ago and found his Pittsburgh apartment stocked with stolen goods. They said he admitted 28 house burglaries in western Pennsylvania. Even as Wright was buried, Mr. and Mrs. Holgar Elmquist of Warren identified part of $1132 in loot taken from their home Dec. 8. Th articles were found in Wright apartment.

THURSDAY, JULY 3, 1952

To be 70 years young is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful than to be 40 years old. — Oliver Wendell Holmes.

The Slump in Textiles
WHAT has happened to Pottstown's textile plants? Why have some closed entirely, others working part time?
Every owner of a stocking mill, shirt factory, underwear shop, has been concerned by the slump. Some have closed their shops. Pottstown has been hurt by the closing of the Pottstown Knitting mills, the shuttering of Public Shirt, and the rumored closing of others.
Workers have lost out. Their pocket-books are flattened, so the merchant suffers. Every businessman, down the line, feels the pinch.
What has happened?

A "mass renunciation" of fashion is being blamed by some trade union economists for the current slump.
Fortune magazine summarized four of the union explanations for the slump:
1. Women are ignoring the dictates of fashion.
2. More youngsters are marrying and at earlier ages, thereby tightening their clothing budgets.
3. City dwellers moving to the suburbs are going in for casual clothes, instead of dressier wear, and
4. A "shortage of romance."
This is advanced by Lazare Teper, research director of the Ladies Garment Workers' Union. He says that with the absence of three million men in the armed services, the females at home "just give up" and don't buy new clothes.

The move to suburbia is considered especially influential by Sol Barkin, research chief of the C. I. O. Textile Workers.
Barkin says suburban living encourages the use of "separates" and washable wear, rather than crepe dresses. He also notes the weakening of the Paris influence "not since Christian Dior's New Look has any pervasive new style taken hold."
Other economists point out that married couples, saving their money to furnish homes, spend less than single persons on clothes.
Nowadays people are marrying younger: in ten years' time the median age of bridegrooms went from 24.3 years down to 22.6 years.
There are three million fewer single women today than there were a decade ago, even though the total number of women aged fourteen and over has increased by seven million.

Those are the reasons advanced.
Now, what's the remedy?
What must Pottstown do to reopen those mills, employ the hundreds who are unemployed?
It's a problem that must be faced by Pottstown's civic organizations, possibly its municipal government. Pottstown is close enough to the coal regions to realize how an industrial slump can ruin cities. Scranton and Wilkes-Barre are among the coal region cities that have gone through a crisis. Most Pottstown follows.
Now, before it's too late, and before the economic slump hits Pottstown harder, efforts must be made to obtain new and diversified industry. Will Pottstown's leaders accept the challenge?

Take It Easy
THIS is our last opportunity to ask all Pottstown and area motorists to slow down during the Fourth of July holiday. We hope you heed it.
Speed holds the key to how free of accidents the jam-packed highways will be during the long three-day weekend, when a record throng of pleasure bent motorists will take to the road in celebration of Independence Day.
Speed is a contributing factor in two out of every five fatal traffic accidents. The greater the speed when an accident occurs, the greater the chance for death.

Speed kills—take it easy! Speed control is the personal responsibility of each driver. The man behind the wheel is like the man behind the gun—and he can be just as deadly.
Don't pull the trigger by driving too fast through the heavy traffic expected on the Fourth of July.
Remember, the Fourth celebrates the birth of our nation. Don't let it become a day of death for you or your loved ones.
Take it easy on the Fourth. Be Alive on Monday to go back to work.

GRAMPW OAKLEY

PUNKIN CORNERS, July 2.
Dear Sir 'n' Brother:
Well, I see by the papers where a home planner says the ideal spot for the kitchen sink is in the middle of the room. Yep, that's remindin' me of the kitchen sink I had in my house. What kind of bargain were they interested in?
And say: A simplified method is being turned by some railroads. So what? It's the train schedule that gets us stuck!
Hopin' you air the same,

Comfort Is Sensible
To the Editor: In my opinion, the reader who signed his name Knobby ("Let's Avoid Ridicule," Readers Say, July 1), is a timid male with a decided inferiority complex.
He says he admires the man who dared wear comfortable shorts on the hottest day in years, but thinks it's a dangerous precedent to set because men might be ridiculed.
Certainly, Knobby, it's much more ridiculous to wear stiff collars, tightly-knotted ties, bulky coats and hats during the torrid weather in Southeastern Pennsylvania, than to dress sensibly.
Furthermore, a neat sports shirt, clean and dry, makes a better appearance than a winter-weight shirt with wilted collar and large areas of perspiration.
As far as ridicule is concerned, I don't think men will be laughed at for dressing to fit the weather.
Anyway, what could be more ridiculous than the straps that women call shoes, the filmy rags they call dresses, the pieces of cloth and wire they call hats and the other summer clothes they effect?

Let's come to our senses, Knobby. Instead of shrinking timidly into your hot business suit, break out into common-sense clothing and be a sensible man!

COMFORTABLE

Industry Loss Faced
To the Editor: What must Pottstown do to get more factories? Pretty soon we'll be a ghost town.
I sympathize with you when you write editorials about all the factories closing and no new ones coming here. Believe me, our people are feeling the pinch too. I know a lot of ladies who are out of work.
When it comes to interest in Pottstown, I don't know who has it. You try to prod the Chamber of Commerce into action, but you don't get anywhere.
Why don't you do what the people expect? Let The Mercury go out and get more industries. Nobody else here will do anything.

Women Demand Rights
To the Editor: I think it's terrible that girls aren't allowed in professional baseball. The recent episode with the Harrisburg team shows very plainly just how stupid and backward some of our American men can be.
They claim, and quite proudly, like they've just given their right arm, that they've made it possible for American women to have almost as many privileges as the men.
So what's so great about that?
Why in the world shouldn't women have all the rights men enjoy?
I for one, am sick and tired of being told that I can't think properly when it comes to voting—that I can't be accepted as a lady if I drive a coal truck—that I'm supposed to be frail and lady-like—and then get pushed, shoved and ignored on a crowded bus or when trying to purchase a ticket to the movies.
Why don't you men wise up?
If we women are going to earn half the wealth in this country, we certainly can expect to have a little fun while we're at it.

WASHINGTON
'Cold War' Allies Grow Resentful of U.S. Aid

WASHINGTON, July 2—Arms production in the United States has fallen far below the levels required to fulfill all the worldwide commitments made by the Truman Administration under the collective security program. Our anti-Russian bulwark is tottering, politically, materially, militarily.
Our major and minor allies are growing restless, if not resentful, of their original reliance on American guarantees and leadership in the "cold war." The demand for parleys with Stalin commands increasing popular and official support in London, Paris and Bonn, despite Truman-Acheson insistence on the utter futility of such parleys.
The Europeans are in a "peace at any price" mood, whereas the question of who will shake the sabre in Stalin's face most menacingly appears to be the main issue of the American presidential campaign in both major parties.
Winston Churchill's rule has become shaky because of his willingness to follow the Truman-Acheson lead in Europe and Korea. Labor Leader Attlee, as well as many conservatives, regard General Mark Clark's military operations as provocative of World War III as MacArthur's aggressive recommendations. All Europe welcomed MacArthur's dismissal.
Anthony Eden, who may succeed Churchill, does not share the latter's views on many world questions. His political career is at midday, while Churchill's parliamentary sun has set. He will be more responsive to Attlee's insistence on heavier expenditures for social and economic experiments than for Anglo-American rearmament.
But the most ominous development concerns France, our mainstay on the European Continent.

WARNED: Premier Pinay recently warned American diplomats and business men that he might call on the United Nations to take over the resistance to Chinese Communists in Indo-China. He argues that repelling the Reds' aggressive expansion there is fully as vital as our holding operation in Korea.
Pinay points out that there is no economic justification for French defense of Indo-China. France has only about $50-billion francs invested in that country. But the war costs Paris $50-billion francs a year, and the annual loss of 1000 officers. We graduate only 500 from West Point each June.
The fall of Indo-China could be fatal to the program of collective security and "containment" of Russia. It would give Moscow access to a treasure house of such essential resources as oil, rubber, tin, timber, food, etc. It would lodge the Reds in a strategic flanking position vis-a-vis India, Indonesia, Japan, the Philippines, Okinawa, even Australia and New Zealand.

ULTIMATUM: This peril was responsible for the recent Washington visit of Jean Letourneau, French minister for the associated states. Although his real mission was not disclosed in any official communiqué, he delivered a virtual ultimatum to Truman and Acheson.
The French forces, he told them, must obtain vast military supplies from us or abandon this bastion against Communist conquest of Southeast Asia. Recognizing that the United States is the only effective fighting member of the United Nations, he placed his problem before Truman instead of Trygve Lie, the world organization's secretary general.
This is the fifth time that the United States, England and France have bypassed the United Nations because of its ineffectiveness or because of Russia's ability to block any positive action by that body.

The Voice of Broadway
By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Let's Play Post Office
DEAR DOROTHY:
I have a gripe!
Weeks preceding a big fight the New York sportswriters, as a group, seem to get their little heads together and choose their boy for the winning slot. The public has little chance to pick out its own favorite. The readers are blasted with publicity releases proclaiming the fact that THEIR boy is so far superior that the opponent must be a lame brain indeed for even considering matching blows with him. If the public doesn't rush right out and bet the piggy bank on THEIR boy they are at least jerks and killjoys and worse, completely nuts.
Then comes the big night, and where's THEIR boy? Either flat on his K O'd back or on the wrong end of a right decision. Horrors of horrors—THEIR boy lost!

BUT DO they admit it? Do they tell their readers how far off base they had been? Do they humbly bow their golden locks and wish they had never been born? Do they take up a collection for the aid of those who became needy by placing the old bankroll on THEIR boy? Do they congratulate the winner and write a

The Worry Clinic
By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

DORIS D., 28, is a talented school teacher. She is gentle and kind.
"Dr. Crane, I understand that animals are used in medical schools for research purposes," she said.
"It seems to me that it must be very cruel to those poor creatures. I have read literature by people who were opposed to such vivisection, and they tell about horrible mutilation of dogs and cats. So do you think there ought to be a law preventing cruelty to animals?"
Yes, indeed, I certainly think cruelty to animals should be taboo. Just medical vivisection is not wanton cruelty to animals!
Let's frankly analyze this problem of vivisection today. Doctors have now learned how to save 95 wounded soldiers out of every 100, as by blood transfusions and new drugs.
But where did they learn about blood transfusion and the proper dosage of morphine, penicillin and even cod liver oil?
By conducting scientific experiments on animals! But these animals are treated in the same way that you readers are treated when you go to a hospital for surgery.
DOGS AND CATS are anesthetized in advance of surgery, so they do not feel the pain.
After the operation, they are well cared for and properly fed. For the surgeons are eager for the animals to live.
Furthermore, animals are not introverted hypochondriacs. They don't think about their epidemics or "innards" and exaggerate pain, as human patients do.
The next day after a surgical operation involving a six-inch incision in the abdomen, the dogs will bark gleefully when their keeper appears and actually jump up to lick his hand.
"Out of sight, out of mind" is an animal's psychology of life.
Give them something to see or smell or taste so their attention is on external stimuli, and they show little evidence of pain during their convalescence.
Where would you 1,000,000 diabetics be today if it weren't for insulin? But insulin was discovered through experimentation with dogs!
Serums and antitoxins are developed by injecting horses and cows with germs so their bodies will develop an antitoxin to those dangerous bacteria. Then we use the antitoxins to save human lives.
We also test your sputum, for tuberculosis by injecting some into a guinea pig and then killing the animal some weeks later to examine its lymph glands for tubercle bacilli.
We standardize all our drugs on mice or rats or other animals so that we know their potency and thus don't endanger the lives of human beings.

FATAL ACCIDENT—Jacob B. Geyer, of Gilbertsville, was fatally injured when his team ran away on the road between Barto and Eschbach, Berks county. He was driving a double team and fell from the seat and was dragged, his head striking the roadway for about half a mile. He died a short time after the team was halted.
KEPT THE PLEDGE—It has been 11 years since Francis W. Engle better known as "Abbie," signed the pledge and became a Salvation Army worker. He has faithfully kept the pledge ever since July 3, 1941.

RACE CATCHERS—Joshua B. Lessig, High and Madison streets, caught six unusually large bass. Dr. John B. Weiler, High street, hooked five big fellows on opening day of the season.
GRADUATES—Pottstown had two graduates of Mooseheart High school, Mooseheart, Ill. They are Paul Moser, 18, and his sister, Mary, 17. They are children of the late Charles Moser, South Pottstown. Pottstown lodge of Moose sent them gifts of cash for the commencement.

AGED ANGLER—Mary K. Faust, 78, of 832 Queen street, has received a fishing license from County Treasurer Frank J. Skilop. She has been an ardent fisherman from girlhood and declared "I can easily catch as many fish as any man."

10 Years Ago

NEW RECTOR—Rev. John Najia, rector of the St. Stanislaus Catholic church, Summit Hill, has been named rector of St. Peter's Catholic church, Pottstown, of which the late Rev. Frederick Walewski was rector for ten years.
NUPTIAL EVENT—Miss Margaret Shute, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. A. Clement Shute, was married in Falmouth, Mass., to Capt. Herman Schmidt, of the U. S. Army.
MADE CENSOR—Attorney Jesse R. Evans, of Pottstown, has been named to the Board of Censors of the Montgomery County Bar association. The appointment was made by county judges.

Hollywood

By EDITH GWYN
HOLLYWOOD, July 2—Happy UN-wedding day! Lana Turner is able to get her vacation, rest and "a trip" she'd planned, along with the six weeks she'll spend in Nevada divorcing Bob Topping. Because the big musical, "Why Should I Cry," Lana's next, has been put off till October. (No kiddies, the male star is not Johnnie Ray.)
Howard St. John, who was so super as the drunken lawyer in "Born Yesterday" goes into "Stop, You're Killing Me!" with Brod Crawford and Claire Trevor at Warners... That good-looking lad around the spots with Arline Judge, is Wes Ruggles, Jr., her son by her first spouse... Isobel Begley, who forgot all about her "engagement" to a handsome Mocambo captain when she clicked in "Guys and Dolls," may do an altar march with agent Larry Barnett.

OVER THE WEEKEND Vic Damone flew in for confab at Metro where he'll star in two pictures after he sheds his uniform... Barbara Britton arrived from N.Y. for the femme lead in Arch Oboler's "Swana Devil." (New title for his three dimensional film, "Lions of Gulu.")... Walter Pidgeon, Janice Rule, Barbara Kuck, Andre Previn, Peggy King, et al, spent the past few days entertaining at Fort Ord and the Travis Air Base... We met up with Peggy King, et al, and again noted her resemblance to Judy Garland. She told us she'd lightened her hair to look a bit different and added, "I even sing like her, they tell me. But I can't help it that our voices timbres are the same." The King gal will go into "Jumbo"—and is she thrilled... A feller telling someone that Milton Berle is ailing, Bobby Gordon was asked, "What's Berle got?" Gordon replied, "A lot of money."

FAMED CRITIC Richard Watts is curragy about a blonde actress who commutes between Filmville and eastern TV. Only trouble is, she's married! (They're constantly together in public when she's cast but none of his pillars has mentioned it.) Peter Lorre's in town—or will be momentarily—to house guest with his first ex. His second, Karen Verne is doing well in a movie comeback... Dolores del Rio and handsome Lew Riley, well-known hereabouts, secretly tied the knot a few months ago in Mexico, we hear... The star-studded "Tribute to a Bad Man" is almost finished at Metro—and even though Louis Calhern is never seen in this picture, his voice will be heard throughout it.

Local Lad Saves 3...

New Credit Man...

 TRIPLE OMBRED—The story of a 24-year-old Pottstown area's man rescue of three little girls who apparently were drowning was reported yesterday by Mrs. Harry E. Vocum, Pottstown RD 1, in answer to this column's appeal for nominations of area residents deserving of an orchid for good deeds done without thought of reward. Nominated was her foster son, William E. Hansley, Pottstown RD 1, an employee of Pottstown Manufacturing company, who was at Hopewell park lake Sunday afternoon when he noticed a little girl, thrashing around and shouting in the water. At first, he thought she was fooling; but when she went down again, he dashed to the rescue. Before he could bring her out, another little head popped above the surface, gasping. Hansley grabbed her, too. By then, another panicky little girl was in trouble.

WHEN HANSLEY finally came ashore, he had two little girls under one arm, and one in another. Hansley sought no credit, didn't even get the little girls' names, but his foster-mother read the appeal and thought he rated, which he does... There are plenty of other unknown heroes of everyday life. Whether they saved a life or cheered a friend, they may rate an orchid salute. Send in your nominee!

 HEROISM—On the same subject, but with a more unfortunate ending, Nao-Hei Shinada, the Japanese counselor at the Green Lane RD camp, who died trying vainly to save a drowning 10-year-old boy, apparently went well beyond the call of duty in the rescue attempt. He had been at the front of the pack of about 20 boys that were jumping from one big rock to another, but when the boys kept getting ahead of the short, slender Japanese man, he moved to the rear of the line and let another bigger counselor lead the way. The boy who fell in had been 50 yards ahead of the leading counselor, Shinada sprinted all the way from the end of the long line to make the rescue dive that cost his life.
Incidentally, a former chief counselor of this University camp is Samuel K. McConnell Jr., Montgomery county's Congressman.

 SAILOR—Among the Navy men aboard the heavy cruiser USS Macon which will take part in the training of more than 3000 Naval reservists and Naval academy midshipmen this summer is Donald J. Toth, seaman apprentice, son of Mrs. Mary Swinehart, 331 King street. The Macon is a unit of a 26-ship task force participating in the cruise to Western Europe and the British Isles. The ships will return to the United States by way of the Caribbean, stopping at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, for two days before completing a 56-day cruise early in August.

 NEW POSITION—Herbert W. Stauffer Jr., 1027 Terrace Lane, is joining the American Credit Indemnity company, whose office is in the Security Trust building, as special agent. Stauffer formerly was employed at the Vauban Knitting company. Harry J. Diefenbeck, Douglassville RD, has been manager of the American Credit Indemnity company's Pottstown branch for 29 years. His company, incorporated in New York, but with main offices in Baltimore, Md., insures the accounts of manufacturers and jobbers... Richard D. Mathew, 133 Main street, Collegeville, a senior in aeronautical engineering at Penn State college, has been named to the Dean's list for high scholastic attainment. A Bovertown lad, Leon R. Romig, 523 East Third street, also made the honored list... GIVE AWAY DEPT. Two brown and white spaniels, year old female and 6 months old male. Call Mrs. Grace Birt, Douglassville RD 1, at phone 2304 J 2.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN N. HUNDEN, M. D.
IT IS JUST as important for a person to have the urine examined at frequent intervals as it is to have his teeth examined regularly. One reason is to determine whether or not he has signs of diabetes. If diabetes is discovered early enough and proper treatment started, life can be greatly prolonged and much damage prevented.
Most everyone knows that in diabetes, insulin injections are given to take the place of the insulin normally poured into the blood by certain glands in the pancreas. It is true that many with advanced diabetes would die if they discontinued these shots.
Recently, however, we have had experimental evidence that diabetes does not always become progressively worse, if caught early. The glands in the pancreas that secrete insulin may grow back again, even after they have started to die.
Tests of large numbers of people have turned up many cases of diabetes which might have gone unsuspected for some time. In surveys over large areas in which urine tests were used to check the sugar in the urine, it was found that from one tenth of a percent to two percent of the people were diabetic.
It should be remembered, however, that sugar in the urine does not necessarily prove a person has diabetes. Many times a blood test is also necessary to check the amount of sugar in the blood. If there is excess sugar in the blood, it may prove the case is diabetes.
Certain drugs taken by mouth, such as salicylates, will also produce an excess of sugar in a urine test. Thus, it is important to follow up the urine findings with adequate blood sugar tests.
Some of the early symptoms of diabetes are pains in the legs, frequent urination, great hunger and thirst, together with general weakness and distress.
Diabetes may be inherited, and has a tendency to run in families. Those having a history of diabetes in their family should be especially careful to have frequent tests to determine whether or not they have the disease.

Five Instructors Elected, One Resigns at Spring City

Spring City school board accepted another teacher resignation and elected five new faculty members at its July session last night. There remained but one vacancy to fill for the opening of the new term, Sept. 2.

The teacher who resigned was Nathan Hendig, social studies teacher and assistant coach, whose letter said he would accept a post at Kennett Square. The board also formally accepted the resignation of Eugene G. Groff, health and physical education teacher, which was previously announced. Groff quit to accept a position at Stevens Trade school, Lancaster.

Director E. C. Willever, teachers' committee chairman, reported the resignations and recommended the election of the following five new members to the faculty, all of whom were approved by the board unanimously:

Mrs. E. Sara Hacker, 226 S. & K. Street, Spring City, teacher of the fourth grade. A graduate of Pottstown High school and West Chester State Teachers' college. Mrs. Hacker has had eight years teaching experience in North Coventry elementary schools.

Miss Marjorie A. Bjork (pronounced York), 715 South Bergen street, Bethlehem, home economics teacher, high school, a graduate of Fountain Hill High school and Mansfield State Teachers college, class of 1952.

EBEN S. Cleveland, of Devon, health and physical education and head football coach. Cleveland is a graduate of Upper Darby high school, attended University of Illinois, but left to serve three years in the U.S. Army Air Force, and returned and graduated from Illinois, where he played football. He taught health and physical education and coached at Richardson park, Del., three years. He resigned to complete his master's degree at Temple university, and taught the past year at Bridgeton, N.J.

Norman Reichenbach, of Houtzdale, social studies, head basketball coach and assistant football coach. Graduate of Sumbury high school and Lock Haven State Teachers' college; played four

Twin-Borough Lions To Raise Club Funds With Monkey Game

To raise funds for the various projects they sponsor during the year, Twin-Borough Lions clubs will put on their annual monkey baseball game on Royersford High school field Thursday night, July 10, at 6:30 o'clock. The proceeds will be divided between the two service clubs.

The idea of the fun making contest is to make a monkey out of the opponent. To this end some six or more of the one team will be dropped into the jungle, which consists of a four-foot tank of water, over which the unlucky victims sit and stake their chances of avoiding a dunking.

Each team, after sending a runner to first base or scoring a run, has the opportunity to select one of the rival team members, who is placed in the tank. The runner has three chances to drop his opponent into the water. If he succeeds, he scores one point for the monkey for his team. Six parts of the monkey are needed for a victory.

The past year two games were played; but this year the monkey game will have but one date, July 10.

Each player will be bedecked in a fitting costume. As an added treat for the kiddies, a cage of live monkeys will be on display.

Spring City Reunion Held by 1929 Class With 32 Attending

Spring City High school graduating class of 1929 met at Lake Side inn, Route 422, recently for its second reunion, with 32 class mates, wives and husbands in attendance.

The 23rd anniversary of the class was observed, beginning with an hour of fellowship, preceding a dinner. The Rev. F. Lewis Walley, Allentown, a member and former president of the class, offered the invocation.

The meal was followed by a few remarks and announcements by Eli H. Gruber, who served as master of ceremonies. Due recognition was extended Melya Mowrey Brangess for her excellent chairmanship of the reunion committee.

Serving with her on this committee were Samuel Chapman, Eli Gruber, Paul Miller, Azalia Emery Serkis, Dorothy Rogers Stauffer and Ethel Taylor Hopwood.

A HIGHLIGHT of the evening was an hour's showing of colored slides by Robert Gruber, Heckel avenue, Spring City, who has an outstanding collection of photographs he has taken in every state of the United States. By request, his projection of local birds and flowers followed. Six door prizes were presented lucky winners.

The class decided unanimously to observe the 24th anniversary with a reunion-banquet the second week of May, 1953, and that the 25th would be held the following year with special emphasis on a silver anniversary program.

Attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brangess (Melya Mowrey); Samuel Chapman, Mrs. Stanley Cottrell (Evelyn Sprenger), Waretown, N. J.; Mrs. Carl Sprenger, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo E. Dick (Florence Simon), Pottstown; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Filkins, Royersford; Mr. and Mrs. Eli Gruber, Malvern.

Gruber, guest. Mrs. Ethel Taylor Hopwood, who served on the committee, was unable to attend because of illness.

Un-American Committee To Subpoena Condon

WASHINGTON, July 2 (AP)—The House Un-American Activities committee today announced that "in the near future" it will subpoena Dr. Edward U. Condon, former director of the National Bureau of Standards.

Chairman Wood (D-Ga.) said Condon will be subpoenaed to testify at a time and place to be announced later.
In 1948, a subcommittee asserted that Condon was one of the weakest links in atomic security and had associated with suspected Soviet spies.

Condon, then head of the Bureau of Standards, hotly denied there was any basis for the subcommittee's statement and demanded a hearing. None ever was held, although Wood said later that Condon could have a hearing at any time.

Radio Writers Strike at Three Networks; Coverage of Both Conventions Threatened

NEW YORK, July 2 (U)—Radio writers struck at three major networks today, posing a threat to television and radio coverage of the Republican and Democratic conventions in Chicago.

The networks insisted the strike of the Radio Writers Guild (Ind.) would not affect convention plans or regular news programs.

However, strike leader Graham Grove said the strike is "going to hit the conventions and hit them hard."

A thin line of pickets took up positions right after midnight outside the National Broadcasting company's studios in Rockefeller Center.

THE COLUMBIA Broadcasting system and the American Broadcasting company also are involved in the wage dispute with the guild.

Only 67 staff newswriters are involved here in the dispute. But the guild said it expected the backing of 1200 members of its parent union, the Authors' League of America.

NBC said coverage would proceed as usual when the Republican convention opens Monday in Chicago. The Democratic convention opens two weeks later.

The Chicago staff of the network, NBC said, belongs to a different union.

All three networks said supervisory employees are on hand to plug any gaps left by the striking writers.

Grove, however, said 100 guild members are prepared to go to Chicago to join pickets there. This could affect television as well as radio broadcasts, he explained, if TV writers respected the picket lines and refused to cross them.

A feature of the wage dispute is the guild's demand for premium pay for sponsored programs, which, they claim, announcers, directors and producers already draw.

Law Introduced To Crack Down on 'Influence Peddlers'

WASHINGTON, June 2 (U)—Legislation to crack down on influence peddlers was introduced today by Chairman Hoyer (D-MD) of a Senate investigations subcommittee.

It calls for $5000 fines and up to two years' imprisonment for all persons involved in an influence deal.

Present laws, Hoyer told the Senate, provide punishment for Government officials who take bribes in influence deals but allow the actual influence peddlers, those who hire them, and their go-betweens to escape and-free unless a conspiracy can be proved.

Ever since 1948 the subcommittee has been turning up evidence of corruption through influence peddling in the Government, Hoyer said. Repeatedly, he added, it has found the laws inadequate to punish all the offenders.

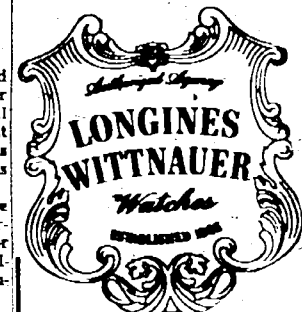

THE NEW BILL would also provide for civil penalties three times the amount of the property or service involved. Informers would be encouraged to report influence peddling by an offer of a reward equal to 10 percent of the amount collected in civil penalties. Members of the subcommittee backed the bill unanimously.

Hoyer linked the bill to the sub-

Patty High, Patty Hanna, Robert Bernard, Mary Ann Rapp, Edwin Rapp, Thomas Troutman and Ruth Ann Evans.

IT WAS ALSO announced at last night's meeting that Mrs. Margaret Saylor won the second prize in a dressmaking contest in which six local granges competed.

Vernon Rapp, master, presided over the meeting attended by 45 members.

Air War Ace Balances In Comfort of Home

OIL CITY, July 2 (U)—Col. Francis S. Gabreski, hero of countless thrilling air battles over Europe and Korea, relaxed today in the intimate comfort and simplicity of his boyhood home.

Residents of this northwestern Pennsylvania city had planned a big reception when the fabulous Air Force ace arrived last night, but canceled it at his family's request.

The townspeople agreed this should be Colonel Gabreski's day—a day in which he could be alone with his family.
